

“Baylor Rehabilitation helped me pick up the pieces.”

Patti Foster was on her way to a Bible study, when a semi-truck driver rear-ended the vehicle she was riding in at full speed. “The impact ejected me out of the side of the SUV,” she says. “And from there, life changed.” Patti sustained multiple traumatic injuries, including a traumatic brain injury. She spent five weeks in a coma in ICU and then moved to Baylor Institute for Rehabilitation. “Baylor Rehabilitation taught me how to live again. I was like a 34-year-old infant. I had to relearn everything.” Today, Patti is an inspirational speaker and does voiceovers for radio and TV. She also volunteers at Baylor. “I want to tell other patients not to give up. Because I’m a walking miracle.”
